A Hot Potato for House Unit

By LESLIE CARPENTER
Star Special Writer

A House investigating subcommittee will decide within two weeks whether to pursue an inquiry into the CBS television network's involvement in an aborted invasion of Haiti in 1966—and whether the subcommittee dares open the hearings to the public.

The probe is full of fire because there is good reason to believe the Central Intelligence Agency was also deeply mixed up in the effort to overthrow Francois (Papa Doc) Duvalier, the voodoo-oriented dictator who has stayed in office all these years through sheer state terror.

Domestic politics are also very much a part of whether the investigation is continued. If CBS actually did all it has been accused by some subcommittee members of doing, public hearings could give the strongest support yet to Vice President Agnew's criticism of TV news.

The subcommittee—a branch of the House Commerce Committee which has jurisdiction over TV—has been holding secret hearings and executive meetings from time to time since last July 17 on the attempted Haiti invasion.

A report on what came out in those hearings, plus a digest of hundreds of documents subpoenaed from CBS, is now being prepared by the subcommittee's staff. It runs more than 1,000 pages in length.

A CBS camera crew and production staff had an "arrangement" for exclusive TV coverage of an invasion of Haiti by a mixed bag of disestablished Haitians and Cubans, including an exiled Catholic priest. The important question is how CBS obtained exclusive rights. The allegation has been made that CBS financed the proposed invasion to get what it thought would be a major TV scoop.

The whole thing developed into a "Mack Sennett comedy," as one congressman on the subcommittee put it.

Despite the fact that the CIA was obviously involved, the invasion was nipped in the bud when another federal agency refused to let the invaders leave this country.

Behind the subcommittee's closed doors, top CBS executives have denied they knew anything about the invasion plans and claimed that anything that was done was carried out at a "lower level." Yet, one subcommittee member notes that the CBS crew which was to accompany the invaders filed sky-high expense accounts and received the money.

One unknown White House staffer handling minor presidential appointments is strong on partisanship and short on taste.

When Mrs. Hubert H. Humphrey's term as a member of the President's Committee on Mental Retardation expired recently, she was not reappointed. It is known that she wanted to be and—even realizing the whims of politics—expected to be.

The wife of President Nixon's 1968 rival for the presidency has been in the forefront nationally for years championing help for the mentally retarded.

Mrs. Humphrey's first grandchild was born mentally retarded. Her frank discussions of the problem in her own family has contributed greatly to remove the embarrassment of mentally retarded children in other families.

Mrs. Humphrey's place on the committee went to Mrs. Peter Ora of Franklin, N.J., whose claim to fame—according to the White House announcement—is membership on the Sussex County and the New Jersey Committees for Mental Retardation.

U.S. Has 30,262 Tax-Free Groups

Associated Press International

The Internal Revenue Service published a milestone document yesterday listing for the first time 30,262 tax-free private organizations ranging from the giant Ford Foundation to Guedels Dinky Foundation.

A telephone-size directory, made public by the House Small Business Committee, lists for the first time all foundations registered with the IRS by name and address.

Also, it was the first time the total number had been made public.

Such a documentation has been demanded for the past eight years by Rep. Wright Patman (D.Tex.), whose Small Business subcommittee has been investigating possible tax abuses through use of the nonprofit organizations.

Foundations win tax exemption if their purpose is to promote a charitable, education, scientific or religious cause.

There are no ground rules defining those goals, however.

New York State with 674 foundations leads the Nation. Manhattan has 5442 alone. The Los Angeles area has 1472 foundations; the Chicago area, 1995; Boston, 1654; Philadelphia, 1094.

There are 1463 in Texas, including the Johnson City Foundation which is the family foundation of President Johnson.

ADDENDUM TO JOURNAL
OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL

Thursday - 4 December 1969

1. (Internal Use Only - LLM) Miss Pounds, in the office of Representative William T. Murphy (D., Ill.), called to verify the number of provinces in Manchuria. She said the Congressman had a recollection that there were nine, while the Library of Congress listed only three. Later, based upon the advice of [] Chief of Editorial Division STATINTL Office of Basic and Geographic Intelligence, I told Miss Pounds that there are three administrative divisions: Heilungkiang, Kirin, and Liaoning; but that some consider that a portion of the Inner Mongolian Autonomous Region may be considered a fourth province. I then mentioned that following World War II there were plans to have as many as nine provinces but that this plan had never been implemented. Miss Pounds thanked us for our help.

2. (Internal Use Only - LLM) Gene Thompson, Joint Committee on Reduction of Federal Expenditures staff, requested costs of H.R. 14571 (CIA Retirement Act amendments) explaining that this would be for a report by the Joint Committee on the cost of all legislation pending before the 91st Congress. I told him that in budgetary terms the costs were quite small, but that we would prefer not to have the figures published as they could be used as a basis for extrapolating our payroll for the participants in the retirement system, citing appropriate statutory proscriptions on the publication of such information. Thompson seemed to appreciate the point and withdrew his request.

3. (Internal Use Only - LLM) Mr. Leonard, in the office of Representative Louis Stokes (D., Ohio), called on behalf of a former Seabee who specifically wanted to speak with a CIA representative on "what he had seen in Vietnam." Although "somewhat strange," Leonard said that [] did not strike him as being a crank. After checking with [], I told Leonard that we would be glad to contact [] if he could supply us with his address and phone number, which he said he would do.

Pell went out of his way to compliment the Director and the Agency for the good press we are getting on the Hill, particularly among the previously skeptical liberals. In response to my question, Pell said he thought Chairman Fulbright was sending Committee staff officers Lowenstein and Moose for an on-the-spot look at the Vietnam situation because he distrusted information being received through Administration channels.

Pell asked me about the Greek situation and I said I was somewhat out of touch but in response to his specific questions I said I thought there was some substance to allegations of torture and abuse of political prisoners, that there was apparently general apathy and some latent opposition to the present regime, but the Colonels were dug in and I was aware of no forces, external or internal, likely to unseat them in the near future.

Mr. Michaels also advised that he had talked with Representative John Marsh (D., Va.) who indicated that he had talked to Chairman Mahon about a visit to the Agency by himself, Representative Burt Talcott (R., Calif.), and possibly others. In response to my questions Mr. Slatinshek indicated that the material I provided him prior to the consideration of the bill by the full Committee answers all questions he can foresee from Committee members or others in taking the bill to the floor. He does not anticipate any difficulty in passage of the bill which is now scheduled on the consent calendar of the House. Mr. Slatinshek also advised that he has reviewed our bill along with others with Mr. Ed Braswell, Senate Armed Services Committee staff. Mr. Braswell likewise foresees little difficulty in handling the bill on the Senate side after passage by the House.

I thanked Mr. Mote and responded that the Agency has had direct contact with Chairman Miller over the years and that we see no need for change in our procedures with him. He said he had already been in touch with State and would like answers to several specific questions: (a) why ex-marshal Ho Lung defected to the USSR; (b) have Chin Chi-Wei and Li Cheng-Fang been purged; (c) the whereabouts of Chin Keng; (d) was a major military meeting held in Peking during 3-15 August; (e) what is the nature of the Grand Alliance Command. MEMORANDUM FOR: Deputy Director for Support

SUBJECT : Review of the Status of Development Toward Establishment of a Unified National Communications System (GAO Report)

REFERENCES : A. Draft Report, same subj., dtd 17 Mar 69
B. Memo to DD/S from D/CO, GAO Rpt to Congress, dtd
19 Mar 69

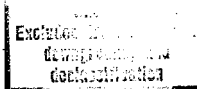

1. This memorandum is for your information.
2. The attached report, Attachment A, has been distributed within the Congress as indicated in Attachment B.
3. This report differs from the earlier draft (Reference A) in two respects: first, under Recommendations to the President (Page 50) the following paragraph has been added:

"We recommend further that, in addition to the organizational realignment, the President direct that early attention is given to (1) clarifying what a 'unified' NCS is intended to be (see Chapters 3 and 12), (2) resolving the question of the establishment of an integrated trunking system (see Chapter 6), and (3) reaching a timely decision on the combination of separate voice networks operated by DOD and GSA (see Chapter 7)."

Second, the tone of the report has been changed to reflect a more moderate and NCS-wide view. It defines a "united" system in a way which is consistent with the ideas we have expressed since the beginning of the NCS and acknowledges the importance of mission-oriented planning (see Page 47). As a result of these changes, I believe that the likelihood of hasty and adverse action referred to in paragraph 6 of Reference A has been greatly reduced.

4. As to what we may expect next to happen: we have checked with the GAO people and find that the only Congressional reaction to date is that of the House Armed Services Committee (Attachment C). With respect to the White House intentions, we have been unable to learn anything specific. We have been advised informally, however, that because of the diametricity of the GAO and BOB reports, no major changes are being contemplated for the NCS within the next several years. If this is truly the case (and we will keep checking), I believe there is nothing further that we need to do at this time.

6. [] I alerted Bill Woodruff, Senate Appropriations Committee staff, to the Director's appearance before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on Monday with Secretary of Defense Laird. Woodruff said that Senator Russell is presently out of town but he (Woodruff) appreciated our letting him know about this.

7. [] Hand carried to John Stark, Staff Director of the Joint Economic Committee, some suggested questions which might be used in the Committee's upcoming hearings on current national policy choices in the Soviet Union. Stark was very favorably impressed with these questions. There will be no attribution to the Agency in the use of these questions. [] He asked that we revise this material and supply it in an unclassified form. He also expressed concern over the infrequent meetings of the Agency House Appropriations Committee. See Memo for the Record for details.

9. [] In a chance encounter I asked Ken BeLieu, Deputy Assistant to the President for Congressional Relations, if he had done anything more regarding our problem with the Ervin bill (S. 782) and told him we still hoped to get together for a full discussion of it. I also said we were exploring the possibility of contacting Senators Robert Byrd, Roman Hruska and Strom Thurmond in this connection. He said after we had gotten a reading on this he would like to know the results and we could see where we went from there.

10. [] Was advised by Marion Ball, USIA, that a Mr. DeKieffen, Senate Republican Policy Committee, was interested in receiving supplementary FBIS material. I called Mr. DeKieffen to outline the information that is available. He decided the Committee would like to received the FBIS Daily Summaries for the Soviet Union, Communist China and Asia/Pacific, in addition to the White Book they already receive. I have requested FBIS to begin sending the three new Summaries to the Committee.

Ivory, International Programs, BOB, and advised that the Agency had no comment on the Department of State's proposed draft bill "To amend the Foreign Military Sales Act" as the subject was outside of the scope of the Agency's responsibility. tion. Yet these calculations were essentially academic numbers games based on constantly changing realities. They presumed a static Russian defensive capability as it existed in 1967. McNamara himself pointed out the big drawback: "We can be certain that the Soviets will react to offset the advantage we would hope to gain."

This line of reasoning, rebutted by some experts, assumes that the offensive side in missile warfare always has the advantage, that it can cheaply and easily offset any improvement in defenses. This theory also presupposes antagonists of roughly equal strength and technological development. The equations all changed when, in the mid-'60s, the Chinese developed their own rudimentary nuclear program. Now there were two threats to consider, and pro-ABM pressure rose accordingly.

In a few years the Peking regime, which is virulently and unpredictable in its self-imposed isolation, will theoretically be able to hit the U.S. with nuclear missiles. Although the U.S. could destroy China as a modern society even more easily than it could the Soviet Union, a touch of yellow-menace fever has set in. "The Chinese are different," argues one general. "They have no regard for human life. Imagine if the Red Guards had got their hands on a couple of ICBMs!" At the same time, the Russians resisted Lyndon Johnson's initial attempts to open negotiations aimed at checking the nuclear-arms race. Moscow made no secret of the fact that it was going ahead with its own ABM. As early as 1962, Nikita Khrushchev bragged that his anti-missile weapon could "hit a fly in the sky."

By late 1967, with an election year imminent and the strong possibility that the Republicans would resuscitate the familiar issue of a missile gap, Johnson and McNamara capitulated to a certain extent. Relying on some of the components developed for Nike-X, the Administration approved the thin Sentinel system that had as its main mission the defense of the U.S. in the 1970s against attack from China. As side benefits, Sentinel could also be used to protect Minuteman sites and would guard against a stray incoming missile that might be fired—probably accidentally—by any nation possessing such weapons in the future.

The basic rationale for Sentinel is the expectation that a potential Chinese attack would be light in number (20 to 30 ICBMs) and use far less sophisticated weaponry than a Russian strike. Hence, it could be repelled. Proponents of a

The Missileer's Thesaurus

The nuclear race has spawned an arcane jargon of its own, one that proliferates as fast as the gadgetry that it describes. A thesaurus of key terms:

U.S. Defensive Systems

SPARTAN: the big-punch, long-range missile in the overall anti-missile defense system called Sentinel. Spartan would be installed at most of the ABM sites as the first line of defense, its mission being to intercept attacking RVs (re-entry vehicles, or warheads) while they are still above the atmosphere, hundreds of miles from their targets. Spartan performs a regional, or "area-defense," role.

SPRINT: the short-range partner of Spartan, to be emplaced at some of the sites. Its mission is to attack enemy warheads that have eluded Spartan. Sprint protects a specific locality—a radar installation or offensive-missile complex—and thus functions as "point defense."

PAR (perimeter-acquisition radar): the highly sophisticated, long-range device that would spot incoming enemy missiles, track them and work in conjunction with MSR (missile-site radar): a less powerful device than PAR, but one that provides refined, close-in surveillance of targets. MSR would direct the firing of Sprints and Spartans.

SABMIS (sea-based ABM Spartan- or Sprint-type weapons): a concept, now in an early phase of study, that involves mounting defensive missiles on surface vessels so as to intercept enemy warheads before the land-based defensive system could reach them. Among its advantages is the possibility of destroying an enemy missile before it could scatter a number of separate warheads and decoys.

ABMIS: the airborne equivalent of SABMIS, now at an earlier stage of study. It would attempt mid-course interception of enemy missiles with projectiles fired from large cruising aircraft. One of its special missions would be to guard against submarine-launched missiles.

U.S. Attack Missiles

MIRV (multiple independent re-entry vehicle): the newest thing in offensive missiles, now under development by the U.S. It will be at least two years before models are operational. The main innovation is that each missile will be able to carry several separate nuclear warheads—as many as ten in the submarine-borne version, and three in the land-based model. Each warhead will be assigned to a different target. Thus, MIRV would increase the nuclear punch severalfold without escalating the number of delivery missiles.

MINUTEMAN: the basic U.S. land-based intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM), which accounts for 1,000 of the 1,054 birds now deployed. The Minuteman series, housed in underground silos to protect the missiles against damage in the event of nuclear attack, is propelled by solid fuel and can be fired 32 seconds after the GO order.

POLARIS: the submarine-borne offensive missile, of which there are now 656 deployed in 41 vessels. They have a shorter range and smaller payload than the Minuteman series, but operate from mobile launching platforms that can generally evade detection while cruising. Three-quarters of the Polaris missiles are scheduled to be replaced during the early '70s with Poseidons, which will have MIRV capability.

WS 120 (for weapons system): the post-Minuteman series of land-based offensive weapons, which would have greater range, accuracy and payload.

Soviet Systems

GALOSH: the NATO code for the Soviet defensive missile, which is already partially emplaced around Moscow. It is considered comparable to the Nike-Zeus, which the U.S. ruled inadequate for operational use.

SCRAG, or SS-11: the missile that comprises more than half of the Soviet land-based intercontinental missile force of nearly 1,000. It is powered by liquid fuel and is therefore slower to react than the solid-fueled American ICBM. It has a shorter range (5,500 miles) but a far larger warhead (up to five megatons).

SAVAGE, or SS-13: the latest Russian ICBM and the first to employ solid fuel. In range, payload and accuracy, it is considered roughly equivalent to the U.S.'s already outdated Minuteman I. The Russians, so far as is known, are not yet testing U.S.-style MIRVs. They have been experimenting with the simpler re-entry vehicles (MRV), in which the separate warheads carried by one missile cannot be assigned to separate specific targets.

FOBS (fractional-orbit bombardment system): a system for delivering warheads from a vehicle making a partial orbit of the earth. Since the vehicle would have a relatively low trajectory (under 100 miles), it might evade detection by conventional radar, thus reducing the defense's warning time to a bare three minutes. ICBMs normally travel a very high course, thus becoming visible to high-angle radar. FOBS would come in under the radar. Otherwise FOBS would function like an ordinary warhead-bearing device. The U.S. discarded FOBS at an early stage of development as inaccurate. The Russians are continuing to work on their version.

He was also interested in knowing whether we had seen Dr. Charles Sheldon's recent article (having to do with a comparison with U.S. and Soviet space programs) and what we thought of it. On the first question, I told Gehrig that while the number of deaths of Soviet Generals has been somewhat high in recent weeks it is not unusually so. MEMORANDUM FOR THE RECORD

1. Today Messrs. [redacted] of the Eastern European Division of OCI and [redacted] of the Legislative Liaison Office debriefed Mr. Darryl Sinclair, Chief Clerk of the United States Senate, at Mr. Sinclair's request.

2. Mr. Sinclair accompanied the US Congressional delegation to the International Parliamentary Union meeting in Vienna. After the session, some members travelled to Czechoslovakia, Hungary, and Yugoslavia.

3. In Czechoslovakia there was a formal and uninformative meeting with Czechoslovak parliamentarians. In Hungary, there was a briefing from the US Embassy staff, but no official contacts with Hungarians.

4. In Yugoslavia, the group was given an extensive red carpet treatment by the Yugoslav Government. A formal meeting presided over by Milentije Popovic, President of the Federal Assembly was a warm and informative occasion. Mr. Popovic extended the group's audience far beyond its appointed time and took pains to explain the situation in Yugoslavia. He also emphasized the government's wish to have good relations with the United States.

5. The debriefing was useful from the standpoint of the Agency's contacts on the Hill, and for substantive reasons.

25X1 3. [] Talked with Mr. Bob Michaels, House Appropriations Committee staff, about Representative Richard McCarthy (D., N.Y.) who contacted the Director today and asked to have our people talk with him on the subject of the involvement of foreign countries in chemical and biological warfare. Michaels knows little about McCarthy except that he had on his own initiative requested a briefing from the Army on this subject and such a briefing was subsequently given (according to a Washington Post article of 5 March 1969) to three senators and 18 representatives. It appears that McCarthy is attempting to eliminate any military program which, in his opinion, is not absolutely justified.

25X1 4. [] and I met with Mr. William Woodruff, Senate Appropriations Committee staff, and reviewed with him the data on Agency research grants which had been prepared pursuant to Bureau of the Budget Bulletin 69-8. Woodruff appeared completely satisfied with his review of this material and [] responses to his questions. Woodruff made notes on the number of contracts by general categories and the cost of programs by categories (without mentioning specific projects). He said he would transmit this information to Senator Russell in a Top Secret memorandum with a suggestion that he (Woodruff) meet with Senator Mansfield advising him that he had reviewed the material and had reached the judgment that none of this information could be included in the Democratic Policy Committee's study on this subject because of the sensitive nature of the projects themselves.

25X1 Advised Woodruff that the Director wished to meet with Senator Russell on Monday to discuss with him the matter of his response to Senator Ervin regarding the question of his appearance before the Ervin Subcommittee on S. 782. Woodruff said he thought this was a good idea and merely asked that we provide him (Woodruff) with a one-page statement of our specific objection to specific sections of the bill without referring to any meeting with the Director. Woodruff will give this to Senator Russell on Saturday as an aide-memoire on a subject of concern to the Agency.

25X1 5. [] Contacted Mr. Proctor Jones, on the staff of Senator Richard Russell (D., Ga.), and asked if the Senator could see the Director sometime during the day on Monday, 17 March. He reaffirmed his opinion that the session will last most of the day on the 13th and we should also keep the morning of the 14th open in case it runs over. He said he was sure the Subcommittee would want a briefing in considerable depth as in the past.

25X1 6. [] Talked by phone with Chairman David N. Henderson, Subcommittee on Manpower and Civil Service, House Post Office and Civil Service Committee, regarding the Ervin bill (S. 782) and told him of the letters the Director had received from Ervin. Henderson, among other things, suggested we should promptly bring the situation to the attention of Senator Russell. See Memo for the Record.

25X1 7. [] At his request met with Bill Woodruff, Senate Appropriations Committee staff. Woodruff showed me an informal memorandum which Senator Mansfield has sent to Senator Russell regarding the Agency's listing of research grants in compliance with BOB Bulletin 69-8. In his memo Mansfield expressed complete agreement with the Agency's submission of this material to the CIA Subcommittee in view of its sensitivity. Mansfield has requested, however, that a member of the Subcommittee staff review the material and make a determination as to whether any of it might be included in the overall report being prepared by the Democratic Policy Committee. OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL

1. [] Delivered to Mr. Carl Marcy and Mr. Arthur Kuhl, Senate Foreign Relations Committee, copies Number 1 and 2 of the transcript of the Director's briefing of Wednesday, 26 February. Arrangements were made to recover the transcripts late in the afternoon and to return them to the Committee at such time as may be desired by the Chairman.

2. [] Met with Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, who advised that he is scheduling the Director for a worldwide roundup for Tuesday, 18 March, before the full Armed Services Committee. The Chairman noted that he would be requesting Secretary Laird to start the posture briefings on Tuesday, 25 March, and wanted the Director beforehand. Rivers requested that the necessary details be worked out with [] and expressed the hope that this time would be an acceptable one for Mr. Helms.

The date was later confirmed with []

3. [] Met with Mr. Frank Slatinshek, Counsel, House Armed Services Committee, and in response to his question of yesterday, advised that the 303 Committee is one established by the White House and that information relating to membership, functions, and duties should properly be provided by the White House. Mr. Slatinshek was informally advised as to the proper point of contact in the White House staff.

Mr. Slatinshek called at the conclusion of this morning's hearings by the Pike Pueblo Subcommittee and advised that it is his sense of Chairman Pike's remarks that the DCI be called as a witness before the Committee. Although this is not a formal notification, Mr. Slatinshek indicated that the Director will be requested to appear Wednesday morning, 5 March. I talked to Mr. Slatinshek again late in the day and he advised that although no further formal consideration of the matter was had during the day, the Wednesday date will probably be requested by the Chairman.

17. [] Received a call from Mr. Frank Slatinshek on behalf of Representative Otis Pike, Chairman of the House Armed Services Special Subcommittee on the Pueblo. Mr. Slatinshek requested the names and official titles of the members of the 303 Committee. I thanked Mr. Slatinshek for his call and advised that I would relay his query and be back in touch with him as soon as possible. The Director and Mr. Kenneth BeLieu, of the White House Staff, have been advised.

20. [] George Murphy, on the staff of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy, called to say that one of the members was pressing Edward Bauser for detailed information on the Soviet FOBs program. Mr. Murphy asked if we would have a knowledgeable individual brief Mr. Bauser and himself tomorrow. These arrangements are being made.

11. [] Met with Ed Braswell, Chief Counsel, Senate Armed Services Committee, and reviewed with him topics to be covered in the Director's briefing of the combined CIA Subcommittees tomorrow.

Mr. Braswell also advised me of the caucus of the Republican Committee members and the position taken by Senator Margaret Chase Smith (R., Maine) which resulted in her withdrawal from membership of all Subcommittees in the interest of permitting some of the newer Republican members to serve in more senior positions on these Subcommittees. It would appear, however, that as a practical matter, Senator Smith will be invited to all Subcommittee meetings and for all intents and purposes can be considered an "ex-officio" member of every Subcommittee.

12. [] At his request, I met with James Gehrig, Chief Counsel, Senate Space Committee, who said he had been queried by Senator Len B. Jordan (R., Idaho) on some of the details involved in the nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty. Senator Jordan is apparently interested in knowing how any cheating by the Soviets can be detected under the terms of this treaty. Gehrig seemed rather confused by this and tended to jumble the Test Ban Treaty with the Non-Proliferation Treaty in this regard. Gehrig wanted my advice as to who would be in the best position to discuss this with Senator Jordan. I told Gehrig my offhand reaction was that the State Department or ACDA could be responsive in this field but that I would check on it and be in touch with him.

Later in the day, I met with Mr. Bray between offices. He was most cordial in his salutations for the new year. He advised that he has been in consultation with the Governor of the State of Indiana as well as the president and administration of the University, and they are all solidly behind us (CIA) and will back us and our recruiter 100 percent. Representative Bray indicated that the feeling is very strong in Indiana that these few dissident students should not be allowed and will no longer be allowed to control or interfere with proper University administration. After some conversation on the point, I advised Mr. Bray that the Agency wishes to avoid becoming the focal point in such confrontations between dissident students and the administration of the University. He indicated his familiarity, from a previous briefing by the Director, with the fact that our Agency policy is founded in a Presidential request and that the greater problem of leftwing attacks on the Agency may also be involved. He advised that he is currently doing a paper on the general topic of activities of the leftwing and asked that I stop by tomorrow when a draft of that paper will be available. I thanked Mr. Bray for his courtesies and plan to go by his office tomorrow afternoon.
